Germans Still Retreating Turks Have Quit Is Report

The Germans are still continuing their retreat which started last week when the French and the Americans started their unexpected offensive. All the Allies are now represented in driving the Germans away from the Marne but so far as the best critics know this is not the big drive which it is known Gen. Foch was preparing.

The Germans strengthened their battle lines in the area where they are being pushed back but in spite of this added strength the Allies are continuing a steady advance.

The retirement of the Germans still remains orderly. Particularly bitter fighting has taken place around Fere-en-Tardenois and at Serpy, both of which towns are now well in the hands of the French and Americans.

As the Germans are setting fire and demolishing various towns and villages along the Soissons-Fismes railroad it seems to indicate that their retirement from the big pocket will proceed still further northward before they halt. It seems probable that they will make another stand from Soissons eastward along the Aisne to the Vesle river, and thence southeast to Rheims.

The number of prisoners being taken is not very high because of the unfavorable condition of the country for an advance, but the enemy losses in killed are very high and the capture of material is large as the Germans are only able to move their light artillery, the Allies capturing large guns and ammunition.

Unofficial advice from good sources are to the effect that serious trouble has arisen between Turkey and Germany and that relations between the two countries have been severed. Rumours have been current for some time that bad feeling exists between Turkey on one side and Germany and Bulgaria on the other, owing to the cession of the Dobrudja region of Rumania to Bulgaria.

The Post Office Employees Strike

There is not much difference in the strike situation of the mail carriers and clerks in the cities, both parties to the trouble still being strongly opposed to giving in. The government have absolutely refused the demands for a board of conciliation as asked for by the postal employees with the consequence that all organized labor is now supporting the men on strike and are seriously considering calling a general strike all over the west to back up their request.

While the strike is causing the most serious inconvenience to the public by the non-receipt of letters, etc., public opinion is solidly in favor of the men whose demands are reasonable and should be acceded to. The government take the stand that they have not the power to grant a board of conciliation without sanction of parliament, thereby going completely against their own orders of a few weeks ago compelling employers of labor to accede to the demands for such a board.

The trouble seems to be that the post office department has fallen down on the job at Ottawa. Parliament some months ago passed an increase and bonus to these poorly paid men but the department has not yet seen fit to pay them with the consequence that because of the extremely high cost of living today the men cannot make ends meet, in fact their wages are about the same as before the war started from $700 to $900 per year, which has been increased by the bonus of $100 passed by parliament but not paid as yet.

How to Fight the Bol- sheviki in Canada

A news dispatch—lamentable if true—which came to hand last week, stated that M. Miliukoff, the leader of the Constitutional Democrats in Russia, had taken up the policy of cultivating good relations with Germany. What gives such a tragic touch to this announcement is the fact that M. Miliukoff has hitherto been known as one of the most strongly pro-Ally among the Russian statesmen. He was a member of the first Russian government formed after the dethronement of the Czar and stood firmly for the continued participation of Russia in the war. He never made any secret of the fact that his political inspiration was drawn from Great Britain, and as a political reformer his ideal for his country was that it should adopt a system of government modelled on the British Constitution.

If the report about his change of attitude is true, the reason for it is quite plain. It is because this Russian patriot has reached the conclusion that the continuation in power of the Bolsheviks can only mean the destruction of his country, and under present conditions he sees no possibility of overthrowing their administration, and bring order out of the chaos in which Russia lies, except by German intervention.

There can be no doubt that in his view of the Bolsheviks and what they stand for, M. Miliukoff is substantially correct. With their aspirations for the relief of the down-trodden and a fair deal for the "proletariat" all must sympathize. The fatal defect of their movement is that it is a class movement. They are not attempting to introduce a new order of society which will be fair to all, but an order in which one kind of unfairness will be replaced by another kind. Claiming that the "lower classes" have been overridden in the past, they aim now to place these classes in the saddle and let them ride over the other classes. And they pursue these ends in the most malignant and vindictive spirit. Their administration in Russia has shown that a so-called "popular" government can be just as tyrannical and just as cruel as the government of any autocrat. The gospel of Bolshevism carries in it no hope for a happier and better world.

We must not think that this subject is one of no practical importance to ourselves. We have on this continent, and operating in Canada as in the United States, a movement which embodies all that is evil and destructive in the principles of the Bolsheviks. Our readers are familiar with the name of the organization known as the Industrial Workers of the World, or, more shortly, the I. W. W. This is a labor organization which must not be confounded for a moment with ordinary labor unions or the federations into which they are combined. The aim of the labor unions is to bring about reforms by legal methods. They believe in political action and in the education of public opinion. They regard the strike, while legitimate, as a method of last resort to be used when other means for the redress of grievances have failed. They do not regard themselves as existing apart from the order of society in general. It is otherwise with the I. W. W. Their theory is that the working class and the employing class have nothing in common. The normal relation between these classes is one of war. They do not believe in political action. Violence is legitimate wherever it can be made effective. Some one has said, and apparently with truth, that "all accepted standards of ethics are regarded by members of the I. W. W. as emanating from and devised for the protection of private property, hence they do not regard these as binding upon their membership." Their primary interest is to secure sufficient power by organization to be able to overthrow accepted standards and seize the industries. Their own historian has described their aim and method as follows: "As a revolutionary organization the Industrial Workers of the World aim to use any and all tactics that will get the results sought with the least expenditure of time and energy. The tactics used are determined solely by the power of the organization to make good in their use. The questions of 'right' and 'wrong' do not concern us."

It is unnecessary to characterize an organization animated by such a spirit as is here disclosed. It is condemned by the fact that, like the Bolsheviks, it regards the interest not of humanity but of a class; but even if its aims were unexceptionable, its avowed methods would condemn it utterly.

Competent observers tell us that the principles avowed by the I. W. W. are making considerable progress, especially among certain foreign elements of our population.

The Tablets are a solid, safe, thorough laxative. Hun Propagandists

Shower Italians With Transparent Lies to Cause Trouble

A new German propaganda, designed to destroy the Italian people's confidence in the American people, was disclosed in official despatches, citing thousands of copies of German newspapers had been distributed in Italy, carrying a story saying the secret message of President Wilson to Italy was addressed to the Italian people, and that the Italian government substituted the words "Italy" and "Italian."

Aviators dropped copies of the publications in Italian trenches, but the Italian soldiers, the despatches said, were not to be deceived, and received them with ridicule.

As an explanation of the propaganda, officials suggest that the Austro-Hungarian authorities might be misled by an Italian offensive.

Influx of Settlers

Land Buyers are Flocking to Southern Alberta

With the completion of seeding operations in the middle and north-western States, there has been a new influx of land buyers into Southern Alberta, which bids fair to rival that which occurred during the latter part of February and the whole of March. New deals are being put through daily. One of the largest that has just been consummated comprises 1,800 acres situated about twenty miles south of Grassy Lake, Alberta, which has been purchased by Idaho parties for $192,000. Part of this land is already cultivated, and the remainder will be broken this summer ready for crop next year. A firm of land agents, handling irrigated land, claims to have sold land to the value of a quarter of a million dollars during the last month.

In the Lethbridge district there will be almost two million acres in crop this year. In 1915 nearly fifty million bushels of grain, mostly wheat, were produced on 1,300,000 acres. It is the hope of every Southern Alberta farmer that this great record will be beaten this year.

The Pill That Leads Them All—

Pills are the most portable and compact of all medicines, and when easy to take are the most acceptable of preparations. But they must attest their power to be popular. As Parmer's Vegetable Pills are the most popular of all pills they must fully meet all requirements. Accurately compounded and composed of ingredients proven to be effective in regulating the digestive organs, there is no surer medicine to be had anywhere.

A German Admission

The Cologne Gazette, commenting on the Alkanatara bridge over the Suez Canal, says that as a whole Great Britain's campaign in Mesopotamia and Palestine has been far from being a failure. The new bridge joins Africa and Asia and it must be admitted that it facilitates the transport of supplies to Palestine, says the German newspaper.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Catarrh being generally influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Dr. Williams' Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The promoters have so much faith in the curative power of Dr. Williams' Catarrh Cure that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. In the Garden

Some Short Cuts to Success in the Growing of Vegetables

The best way to get lettuce in mid-summer is to grow it in cold frames. Of course no sash will be needed on the frame, but the boards seem to protect the young plants from the hot winds, and they thrive far better than in the open ground.

The squash borer is a difficult pest to deal with, because it works inside the stems, where it cannot be reached with poison. There is a simple way to foil this insect. You simply need to bury the stems at the joints every few feet. New rootlets will then be thrown out at each joint, and the plant will continue to grow, even though part of it may be destroyed.

The advice often given to pick all vegetables early in the morning when they are wet with dew is an excellent one, except as it applies to beans. Beans should never be handled while they are wet from any cause, as there is no quicker way to make them rust. This trouble is apt to result even when they are blown about by hard winds after a rain.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out without pain

Let folks step on your feet hereafter; wear shoes a size smaller if you like, for corns will never again send electric sparks of pain through you, according to this Cincinnati authority.

He says that a few drops of a drug called freezone, applied directly upon a tender, aching corn, instantly relieves soreness, and soon the entire corn, root and all, "lifts" right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels up the corn or callus without even irritating the surrounding tissue.

A small bottle of freezone obtained at any drug store will cost very little but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

If your druggist hasn't stocked this new drug yet, tell him to get a small bottle of freezone for you from his wholesale drug house.

Machine Shearing and Dipping of Sheep

Demonstration to Farmers in Correct Shearing

With wool at its present high price, and the demand for far more of it than is now available, the proper shearing of sheep, and the promotion of thrift through ridding them of all insect pests is a duty that cannot be neglected. That this fact, together with the fact that a large number of the small sheep owners are neither expert shearers nor particularly fond of the job, is recognized by the Manitoba government is shown by a new line of work which the department of agriculture has commenced, and which will be of great benefit to many sheep owners.

Two experienced shearers are moving about through the province and shearing and dipping the flocks. They go about from place to place as fast as they can be transferred in an automobile, which will also carry the sheep shearing machine and dipping outfit. The shearing and dipping will be done on the owner's farm as far as possible, and the outfit will be able to handle 100 to 200 head of sheep a day, depending on the distance to be travelled between each farm. A charge of 25 cents a head is being made for the work, but lambs will be dipped free of charge. Until the work is well under way the outfit is to be accompanied by an official of the live stock branch of the Dominion government.

In addition to performing a useful work, the outfit will also afford a valuable demonstration to farmers in correct shearing and the benefits of dipping. Should the experiment prove a success, and the demand sufficient to warrant increasing the staff and equipment, it is possible that the field of operations will be enlarged next season.

Increase Your Acreage

Despite the difficulty, we must produce more food than have ever done before. Set apart all your land fit for growing crops and plant as much wheat as you can. Plan to bring as much new land under cultivation for another crop as possible and thus increase acreage for next year. It will be needed then just as much as now.

Huns to Go Barefooted

"Go barefoot this summer and help the fatherland," is the latest patriotic catchword to be placarded in Germany.

"In view of the alarming scarcity of leather, rich and poor alike should dispense with boots and shoes," says an explanation of the placard in the Rheinisch Westfälische Zeitung, of Essen. The old are urged to set an example for the young. "Why not walk on your bare feet this summer?" says the Zeitung. "Neither old nor young need be ashamed to walk barefoot anywhere—at home, in the streets, at school or in church."

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZ, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultz's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

What Others Are Saying

Saskatoon Star: Premier Lloyd-George has supplied the answer in the British house of commons to a question often asked in Western Canada. "Why should there be such desperate need for men for the Canadian army when the United States army is growing so large?" The explanation is that the British government has undertaken to replace the American troops now brigaded with the British and French battalions, with fresh troops recruited within the empire, and thus enable the Americans to form their own divisions. "That was the honorable undertaking upon which President Wilson was prepared to send over a very large force to France," said the premier. In order to keep the promise to President Wilson a further combing out process is being conducted in Great Britain, and steps are being taken in Ireland to secure by compulsion men who failed to volunteer. The prestige of the British force must be maintained. Men and still more men are needed to replace casualties. The Canadian force is in a similar position. The country is pledged to the support of our army and a stream of recruits must be kept up. That's why the Military Service Act is as necessary in Canada today as if the United States had not entered the war. The United States are fighting with us; our pride cannot permit us to let any ally fight for us.

ENGLAND'S BIT

Kansas City Star: The enquiry is sometimes heard whether England is doing all it ought to in the war.

When we are suffering from 30,000 to 40,000 casualties a week and have kept it up close on four years, when we have stood pat under the stress of air raids, and gone without meat and butter and sugar without complaining, and have sent so many men into the army that the biggest machine shops in the country are operated almost exclusively by women, and have paid taxes such as we haven't yet contemplated—then and not till then will we begin to have the right to enquire whether England is doing all it can.

Help With the Harvest

Everyone who is willing to go on the farms for the harvest has been registered. It remains now to organize the volunteers. Those who are not canvassed by local committees should come forward and get in touch with local organizations. At points where organizations are lacking, volunteers should start farm employment agencies on their own initiative so as to bring farmers and war-workers together.

MORE PROOF OF KAISER'S GUILT IN LAYING PLANS FOR THE WAR

ONE MORE PIECE OF TESTIMONY IS ADDED

Prince Lichnowsky, Former German Ambassador to England, Confided To British Admiral His Knowledge That the Kaiser Wanted the War

The following authentic statement is of interest because it confirms from a different angle Prince Lichnowsky's recently published revelations. It also is one more of the hundred pieces of testimony which prove that the German kaiser was meditating war in the spring of 1914. When diplomatic relations were broken off between England and Germany, the English sent the German ambassador, Prince Lichnowsky, home with full honors, unlike the boorish treatment which the kaiser gave the French ambassador, M. Cambon. The battleship on which the prince went back was commanded by Admiral Hood, who was on very friendly relations with Lichnowsky. For the latter, being a Slav, had good manners, which the Prussians have never been able to attain, and had been really popular in London society.

During the crossing the prince was much dejected, and he said in substance to Admiral Hood:

"I might as well jump overboard, for my career is ended. Three months ago (that is about May 1), his majesty the emperor wrote and instructed me to investigate secretly the state of English public opinion and to let him know whether there was any likelihood that the English would enter the war in case we made war. I looked over the ground in all directions and replied that the English were not likely to go to war on any account. In the first place, they had ceased to be a martial nation. They had grown so rich that their chief desire was to enjoy the luxury and comfort which their wealth brought them. Next, they had a civil war on their hands in Ireland. Then, they had only a very small army ready—160,000 men—and it would take them at least a year to train any considerable force. Finally, I added, they had grown so unimpaired that they allowed even women (suffragettes) to intimidate them.

"I have no doubt," said Lichnowsky, "that my report must have influenced the decision of the emperor in forcing the war. So you see what my fate is likely to be."

On his return to London immediately after, Admiral Hood repeated Prince Lichnowsky's statement to several persons and, among others, to a Harvard professor of worldwide reputation, who repeated it to me soon after he came back to Boston. I printed the story in my "Germany versus Civilization" more than two years ago, but I did not give Admiral Hood as its source because he was then in active service in the British navy. He went down with his ship, as every one knows, in the battle of Jutland, and there can be no impropriety in naming him now.

In the light of such evidence, how long will even the German people go on believing the lie which the kaiser passed off on them at the beginning of the war when he assured them that the sword had been forced into his hands? — By William Roscoe Thayer, in the New York Times.

Soldiers of the Soil

In the Prairie Provinces the Proportion of Boys Engaged Is Over Ninety Per Cent.

Approximately two boys out of every three who have enrolled in the Soldiers of the Soil movement in British Columbia have been unable to find positions, farmers and ranchers being unwilling to hire the city youths. Latest figures available show that out of 1,800 boys enlisted, only 613 have been engaged. In the prairie provinces the proportion of boys engaged is over ninety per cent. and it is possible that several hundred lads will be shipped from the coast to Alberta and Saskatchewan unless the demand there improves materially very soon.

In the prairie provinces the demand is about equal to the supply. Alberta has 624 out of 802 placed, Saskatchewan 1,159 out of 1,215, and Manitoba 1,059 out of 1,437. In Ontario it is estimated that 1,500 boys will be distributed to the farms. Thirty Y.M.C.A. men will supervise the work of Protestant boys, while the Roman Catholic boys will be looked after by the church. Every boy will be visited by some one interested in his welfare.

Mythical Monster Submarine

Naval Writer Furnishes the Truths About German Yarns

Stories of Germany's submarine cruisers may be dismissed, says Archibald S. Hurd, widely known writer on naval subjects, in an article appearing in the London Daily Telegraph.

"They are merely large submarines such as we have been building," he says. "They do not represent a triumph of German engineering any more conspicuous than a triumph our shipbuilders have achieved. It was because German submarines of about 800 tons could remain at sea only a short time, were very uncomfortable and the conditions were very tiring on the nerves of the crews that the enemy evolved a large type modelled on the Deutschland. This type having been designed, it was decided to indulge in exaggeration in order to impress the world.

"What is the truth about German submarines?" he continues. "These cruisers displace not 5,000 tons, but about 2,000. They are not 450 feet long, but less than 300 feet. Their speed on the surface is not 28 knots, but about 12 knots. When submerged they do not travel at the rate of 15 knots per hour, but approximately 10 knots or so.

"It happens that we have heard more about the operations of German submarines than about the British submarine, because the enemy offers few targets for our submarines, while we offer the enemy thousands of targets every week. The percentage of hits by our submarines is, in fact, about three times that of the Germans, which in itself indicates the high standard of efficiency of British ship design, construction and operation. The work which British submarines are doing is magnificent. Our officers are handicapped by many things besides the small number of targets offered them. The Germans are able to maintain their campaign only by defying every law of every nation and ignoring the ordinary dictates of humanity. There is nothing easier than murder."

The Western Canada Irrigation Association

Twelfth Annual Convention This Year at Nelson

The Western Canada Irrigation Association, which holds its twelfth annual convention this year at Nelson, B.C., is a somewhat unique organization. There are no membership fees, no profits, and no dividends. The association is supported in its work by grants from governments and institutions interested in developing the resources of Western Canada. Its functions are largely educational, although by centralizing public opinion with regard to irrigation problems the association is also able to bring to bear an important influence toward improving the conditions under which irrigationists must labor.

The place which the association occupies in public estimation may be judged from the fact that it has the honor of the patronage of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught and of Strathearn, and his Excellency the Duke of Devonshire, governor general of Canada. The honorary president is the Hon. Arthur Meighen, K.C., minister of the interior, and the president is the Hon. T. D. Patullo, minister of lands in the British Columbia government. The honorary presidents are the Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Saskatchewan. The first vice-president is the B.C. himself an extensive farmer and irrigationist, and the second vice-president is Mr. C. R. Macdonald, president of the board of trade at Lethbridge, which has distinguished itself for the interest taken in agricultural problems and the practical means adopted to improve the conditions under which the farmers of Southern Alberta labor.

HON. T. D. PATULLO

The chairman of the executive committee is Mr. F. H. Auld, deputy minister of agriculture in Saskatchewan, and with whom on the executive are associated Messrs. J. L. Brown, of Vancouver, who was one of the moving personalities in the Kamloops convention two years ago; James Johnston, of Nelson, who has the honor of holding the world's prize for certain varieties of irrigated fruit and to whose efforts the selection of the city of Nelson for this year's convention was largely due; W. E. Scott, deputy minister of agriculture in British Columbia; A. S. Dawson, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway natural resources; E. H. Peters, Dominion government commissioner of irrigation; E. G. Williamson, practical rancher and irrigationist of Maple Creek, Saskatchewan, and E. R. R. Wellston, manager of the Coldstream estates, at Vernon, B.C., and for twenty years a successful irrigationist in the Okanagan Valley. The permanent secretary, Norman S. Rankin, is overseas with the military forces and in his absence Robert J. C. Stead, more widely known to the public for his Western Canadian literary productions, is the acting secretary.

For the purpose of bringing to bear the necessary local knowledge of conditions a local board of control has been organized at Nelson of which P. A. Starkey, president of the associated boards of trade of Southern British Columbia, is chairman, and I. R. Annable, former mayor of Nelson, is secretary. Associated with these gentlemen as heads of local committees are Messrs. C. D. Blackwood, W. S. King, Mayor McQuarrie, A. L. McCulloch, Mrs. A. L. McCulloch, C. F. McHardy, and George E. Stevenson.

Steps which have already been taken toward the preparation of the 1918 program give assurance that the addresses will be of a very high order from speakers well qualified to discuss the subjects allotted to them.

A Good Spender

"Has your wife registered for war work?"

"Yes."

"What branch of service would she be best at?"

"I don't know just what it is she volunteered to do, but if there's a vacancy in the purchasing department she'd be a right-at-home there."

POPULATION OF CENTRAL POWERS NOW SUFFERING A SEVERE DRAIN

GREAT LOSSES BY SICKNESS AND UNDERFEEDING

As the War Goes On There Is a Growing Disparity Between the Losses of the Central Powers and People of Allied Countries, Decidedly In Favor Of the Latter

The drain of manpower, the fall in the number of births, and the loss of population through sickness and underfeeding is felt more severely by the central powers than by the people of the entente. Whereas the annual gain of population in Germany and in Austria-Hungary has given place to a serious loss, the people of the entente have suffered a very small diminution in comparison.

Great Britain's total population has so far remained at about the same figures, gains balancing losses. The rate of increase in the United States has not been affected at all. As the war goes on this growing disparity in the losses of population between the central powers and the peoples fighting them is likely to increase. If the war goes on into next year the population of the German empire, on which reliance was placed for the enlargement of Germany's prosperity and industry, and for repairing the injury to trade and commerce after the war, will have lost ten per cent. of the numbers and a still greater proportion of its industrial strength.

The German empire, which in June 1919, should have had seventy-two millions of people, will have no more than sixty-four and a half millions. Germany, as a whole, will have five per cent. less population than when the war began. Of those that have been killed the greater number were men in the prime of life and energy, whom Germany could least spare. By deaths in the battle zone the German empire has lost at least three million men. The birth rate has sunk to such a figure that by next year the number of births will have fallen short of what they would have been had there been no war by three and a third million of children.

In the same period the annual number of deaths among the German population has, owing to the stress and anxiety of the war and of sickness and disease, which have been aggravated by hardships and food troubles, increased by one million over the normal.

But this is perhaps to be regarded merely as weeding, and no great biological loss. Much of the mortality among children and among the civilian population as a whole has been caused by the way in which the food supply of Germany has been mismanaged in the interests of the land holders and of the farming classes to the detriment of the poor. The land holders and farmers have prospects, while the poor in the towns have gone short on bread and potatoes. On the other hand, because of the liberal separation allowances and the high wages, the vital conditions of the growing classes in Great Britain have been better since the war than when the war began. By next year the German empire will be 7,025,000 lower in population than it would have been had the war not taken place. The vitality of the peoples of Austria and of Hungary has suffered even more. This, perhaps, was to be expected. The peoples of Austria will be eleven per cent. poorer in numbers next year than if the war had never taken place. They will be eight per cent. less in numbers than they were in 1914. Hungary will be still worse off. It will have a population nine per cent. lower than before the war, and thirteen per cent. lower than if there had been no war. As the war continues so will these losses increase.

Meanwhile, despite the losses which England has suffered in the war zone, the British population has been growing. By the middle of 1919 this population will be only three per cent. lower than it would have been without war. Great Britain, in 1919, will have a larger population than in 1914.

The Real Boy Scout

Will Lend Valuable Aid in Farm Work This Year

Manitoba scouts intending to take part in the reaping of the 1918 harvest, which, incidentally, constitutes a large portion of war service, will be required to fill up applications which will be issued in the course of a few days.

The forms are worded as follows: "I am prepared to show that I am a real boy scout, that I am loyal to my king and country, and willing to do a good turn to help the empire by enrolling for service during the last two weeks in August, 1918, on the understanding that I shall be under the direction of boy scout officers, that a working uniform, ration, tent, blankets, etc., be provided, that I will not have to work more than nine hours a day, that the time I so work will be counted as war service and that the moneys earned are to be devoted to war purposes as may be decided by our senior officers."

Captured German Trophy

German Officer Had a Handsome Belt Made out of Insignia From Uniforms

The German officer who had a handsome belt made out of insignia from the uniforms of captured or slain British officers did not realize, of course, that that same belt would raise thousands of dollars for the Liberty Loan in the United States. But the enemy belt, with its dozen trophies, did so in the recent campaign, where it brought the curious in range of the bond salesman.

The belt was brought to this country recently by a steel man of Pittsburgh, who went to Europe on business. It was obtained by his brother, who went over with an hospital unit, but later was enlisted in the United States army ambulance service.

The basis of the belt is a leather strap with the regulation German army buckle bearing the words, Gott Mit Uns. Its original owner neatly fastened to the leather British army insignia of nearly every branch of the British and colonial armies—a brilliant motley of gold and silver wrought in lions, stars and regimental inscriptions.

An Indictment

One broiling August day an aged "cullud gemman," who was "rushing a barrow of bricks, paused a dash the sweat from his dusky brow; then, shaking his fist at the sun, he apostrophized it thus: "Fo' the Lawd's sake, whar wuz yuh last Janooary?" —The Argonaut.

Live Stock Damaging Gardens

The fact that there is no one in authority to look after straying cattle and horses in town since the Town constable, Mr. Sick, had to take a holiday is the cause of considerable damage being done to the citizens gardens and the sidewalks, the owners evidently taking advantage for this reason. Besides several minor incidents of damage Mr. Fred Moyle lost practically all his cabbages and cauliflowers last week besides other stuff which he had taken great pains to raise and which he values at about $80. Several horses were also noticed late one night running all over the sidewalks breaking them down.

Those who have the authority should see that somebody is appointed to impound these animals until Mr. Sick returns. In these days of high costs of living when everything possible should be conserved it is a crime that such conditions should exist.

Small boys are also causing trouble in some gardens picking the peas and pulling carrots or doing other damage.

THE BOLSHEVIKI

Are they likely to make more rapid progress in the days after the war when we shall be faced with the difficult problems of reconstruction, including probably a good deal of unemployment and possibly a measure of distress? It would be an unspeakable calamity if such should be the case and if this poisonous infection were to corrupt any large part of our Canadian body politic. We are confident that as things are today, the principles of the I. W. W. are abhorrent to the mass of our working people and these principles can only prevail to an appreciable extent if many who are now out of sympathy should be converted to them. And this leads us to consider what means are best adapted to repel and render innocuous the propaganda of reckless and immoral revolutionists of every type and name.

In general it is clear that a great deal can be done in this direction by remedying those social grievances which form a justifiable ground of discontent. If this could be accomplished in the process of reconstruction to which we are looking forward after the war, the most formidable weapon in the hands of the Bolsheviki would be destroyed.

Two things ought to be aimed at. The first is to see that a decent livelihood, with proper opportunity for recreation, rest and self-improvement, is afforded to everyone who is willing to do his share of the world's work. It is idle to say that such an end could not be achieved. There is abundant wealth in the world for all if it were fairly distributed instead of being accumulated in the hands of a comparative few. What has been achieved during the war is sufficient evidence that the community as a whole, acting through its representatives who form the government, has power to secure conditions of approximate fairness for all its members.

Not less important than the provision of a proper livelihood is the opening of the doors of opportunity. All class privilege which tends to make the higher ways of life more accessible to some than to others should be broken down. Everything possible should be done to keep our social conditions fluid, so that men would gravitate easily and naturally to the position for which they are fitted by ability and character. More than ever we should recognize the truth that "the man's the gowd for a' that," and we should see to it that the gold is not allowed to lie neglected in the dust while brass and tinsel are flaunted in its place.—Presbyterian and Westminster.
